City warrants seem to have dropped make the expenses conform with the retwo or three cents this month, they celpts. Just how it can be done is a now being cashed at seventy-five cents on puzzle, and a solving of the mystery the dollar by brokers.

Chief Walters says that he will hold on to the chieftainship of the fire department and fight to the bitter end, which he thinks will prove more sweet than bitter to him.

Services in the Baptist church at 10:30 a. m. and 8 p. m. Preaching by the pastor. Subject for the evening, "God's hand in our national history." Seats free. All are cordially invited.

The postoffice will be open for the transaction of business this morning from 10 to 11 o'clock, and this evening from 7 to 7:30. Only one collection and one delivery will be made by the carriers.

There will be a shooting match at the driving park commencing at 8 o'clock this morning. A sealskin cartridge box is the first prize, offered by Dr. Palmer, the "Lone Wolf." The first match will be ten birds, twenty-one yards rise, plunge traps, Iowa state rules.

A Washington correspondent says that Council Bluffs' mayor is seeking a posttion in the secret service. Give it to him, Uncle Sam. Put him somewhere where he will have to keep his mouth buttoned up. He is killing himself and his friends by his everlasting prattle.

The Rev. J. Fisk will conduct the services at the mission at the corner of Third avenue and Fifteenth street tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. He will address the children at the home of the friendless at 3 o'clock p. m., situated at No. 714 Avenue D. Parents and children not connected with the home are invited to

Since the refusal of the county to accept the bridge lately built at Seventh street, the city has put up fences to prevent the bridge being used. The fences were torn down yesterday, and James Smith, one of the former proprietors of a trip around the lakes, visiting Montreal, the Revere house, was complained of as and other points of interest, returning by being the offender. He says they have rail. got the wrong man, and proposes to prove so next Monday.

The Nonparell denounces the practice his grip on his grit: "I often feel impelled to of honorable newspapers in giving credit write you at length, and try by degrees to get to articles ellipsed from other papers. The old grandmother got enough life into her yesterday to really get a little vexed and declare it to be "a beastly patience! I shall have my nervous system habit of giving credit to newspaper clippings." The old lady cannot be accused least I hope so, and ther, 'Well,' you say, of indulging in this "beastly" habit, although her scrap-book is mainly filled up with clippings.

Four empty whisky flasks were found in the cells at the city jail yesterday, showing that even iron bars do not prohibit. It seems that flasks are frequently passed in through the windows by outside friends, and the prisoners have a jolly time occasionally in prolonging their sprees after having fallen into the clutches of the law. There should be a fence built about the jail building or some other practical steps taken to enforce prohibition, at least in the jail. Miles Mullen, who was arrested at Pacific Junction for stealing a horse belonging to C. R. Mitchell, yesterday had his examination before Justice Fraincy.
